DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on November 14, 2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese Publication 10-626 (see the English abstract and the computer translation).

The Japanese publication teaches a disk made by an injection molding die. Claim 10 is a product-by-process claim and the only reliance on claim 1 is that the product is molded using the mold of claim 1. The claim is patentable based on the structure of the product and not by the mold in which it is molded. The determination of patentability in product by process claims is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Brown, 459 F.2d 531,

Art Unit: 1722

535, 173 USPQ 685, 688 (CCPA 1972); In re Pilkington, 411 F.2d 1345, 1348, 162 USPQ 145, 147 (CCPA 1969); MPEP § 2113. Thus, in the instant case, claim 10 merely defines a disc-shaped molded product. JP '626 in disclosing a disc-molding machine and method of using such inherently discloses a disc-shaped molded product as well.

4. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sandstrom et al (USPGPub 2002/0058084; previously of record).

As noted above in the rejection in view of JP '626, claim 10 is a product by process that merely defines a disc-shaped molded product. Sandstrom discloses a molded disc-shaped product (Fig. I), and thus anticipates claim 10.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1, 3-9 and 11-13 are allowed over the prior art of record for the reasons of record in applicant's response dated 11/14/06.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 11/14/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues the differences between the Japanese publication -626 and Sandstrom to distinguish claim 10, which is a product-by-process claim. Clearly, the scope of claim 10 is a product claim and patentability can only be determined based upon the structure of the product. See In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, cited previously. Applicant must distinguish the structure of the product from the products of the prior art. This has not been done or argued as applicant persists upon the stance that a product claim is allowable because of the structure of the apparatus with which it is produced. Such is clearly not supported by the case law of record.
